

The Redevelopment Stages

The redevelopment of Mt Ommaney Centre is expected to take the next two years to complete. Upon completion, the centre will be the place to shop for women as the additional retailers and dining options have been designed to cater for the growing family market.

Keeping car parking convenient

Maximising car park spaces during construction has been a major focus in the planning of the redevelopment. Starting in June 2008, construction will commence with focus on the northern car park. This means the car park will be restricted for a limited time. To ensure customers are aware of the changes, from early June there will be significant directional signage advising all relevant car park entry and exit access.

Stage One

Our customers will celebrate the introduction of a full line new Target store, anticipated to open in May 2009. With this addition there will be three discount department stores for customers to enjoy! There will be one mini major and approximately a dozen new specialty stores surrounding Target in the Northern mall. This improved retail mix will deliver a comprehensive choice of some of Australia's favourite fashion and accessory retailers.

The second stage of the first launch in mid 2009 will see the unveiling of the long anticipated indoor/outdoor dining precinct. With up to a dozen food operators and seating for approximately 650, it's sure to become a favourite meeting place. This new area will become the focal point of the new Mt Ommaney Centre incorporating state of the art retail design highlighted by stunning water features and landscaping sympathetic to the local environment.

Stage Two

Customers will benefit with the launch of a new entrance at the bus interchange along with a refurbishment of the existing mall leading to Big W. This precinct will also become home to approximately ten new general retail and service stores.

Stage Three

A new relocated full line Coles supermarket, a second mini major and a further 20 shops incorporating a new fresh food precinct will be launched in time for Christmas 2009. This stage will deliver a further 750 car parks with the majority undercover.

Stage Four

The final phase of the project will launch the third mini major store and in addition, over 25 exciting new fashion and general retail stores. By the end of the project, anticipated to be June 2010, the entire centre will have experienced an upgrade and will present as one new exciting shopping destination. Included in this will also be the upgrading of all amenities and customer interaction points.
